Letters Show No Great Learning and Experts Find It Easy to Trace Writing.

Bessie Green, the negress who was arrested a week ago on the charge of trying to extort money from Francis R. Arnold, father of the missing Dorothy Arnold, by sending him threatening letters, was held without ball for the grand jury by Magistrate Bar low, in the West Side court, yesterday afternoon. Assistant District Attorney F. I. Sullivan produced two of the letters as evidence and placed half a dozen witnesses n the stand, among them being Mr. Arnoid himself and several of the detectives who traced the woman down.

1912, demanded $5,000 on pain of death, but the second, written on February II, was more conciliatory, explaining that bile the writer was a perfect gentleman he was sadly in need of $1,350, if Mr. Arnold wished to help him, and would be thankful get control of Haslett's property, was adif he would mail that much to him. It was this letter, which gave the address of ox No. 566R at the Harlem office of "The | journment was taken at the request of Dis-World," through which the prisoner was traced by a decoying answer. The defendant did not take the stand in

Trial of Accused Former City Chamberlain Put Off Until March.

The so-called "Carnegie grand jury," sworn in last March to investigate the affairs of the Carnegie Trust Company, was discharged yesterday by Justice Davis in Court. Its twenty-three members were esnecially drawn for the Supreme Court They indicted Joseph B. Reichmann, William J. Cummins and Charles H. Hyde, former City Chamberlain.

The foreman of the grand jury, David Freed, handed up yesterday a dismissal of a complaint against Charles A. Moore, ir. who was charged with grand larceny in connection with a note for $16,000, said to have been indorsed at his order and subsequently drawn from the Northern Bank for Cummins. Moore has been in Italy for more than a year. He is the son of C. A. Moore, of the firm of Manning, Maxwell and Moore, No. 85 Liberty street,

District Attorney Whitman appeared be fore Justice Davis after the dismissal to say that he had been served by Charles H. Hyde with notice of an appeal from the Appellate Division denying him a change of place for his trial on a charge of bribery. He said it would be unwise to proceed with the trial until the decision was handed down by the Court of Appeals. Justice Davis therefore adjourned the continued January term until March 5. It is telleved that the decision will be reached by the first of March.
